PLEASED WITH THE SITE

The New Post Office Location Generally Acceptable.

Objections Raised at This Time Would Prove Unavailing.

Since it is known positively that the government authorities have selected the Wilson Avenue site for the new post office building, the old question of "can the city give title?" is being raised by a few persons, disinterested and otherwise. The large majority of our people favor this site, and feel confident that a clear title can be supplied by the city authorities. Those who object to the site argue that a satisfactory title cannot be made. In the meantime the great interest of our community is to have the location made final and have work begun at the earliest possible moment. The appropriation of $100,000 will revert to the treasury unless work is begun within two years, hence the necessity for action is apparent.

For the benefit of those who may have forgotten the status of the title THE JOURNAL has gone to the original dedication or filing of the city plat, and prints below the portion which refers to this property. This plat is simply recorded, and contains no formal dedication, but only gives description and sizes of blocks and lots. The block upon which the court house stands is therein designated as a "public square." All that refers or pertains to the so-called "Wilson Avenue" is as follows: "On the east of the public square is an avenue, as represented on the plat filed, said avenue is 5 chains wide and 20 1/2 chains." This record was made March 22nd, 1850.

From this it will be seen that the "avenue" is not dedicated for any specific purpose, and thus the objection raised by some that it was "dedicated to the city for a park," or that it is dedicated to the public for certain prescribed purposes, seem to have no foundation in fact. Several prominent attorneys say that beyond a shadow of doubt the title rests in the city of Salem and the heirs of the Wilson estate, as the city's representatives and all the heirs stand ready to relinquish their title to Uncle Sam, the last barrier is removed.

There is talk that any private citizen can institute proceedings to enjoin the city from giving title, and that several stand ready to take such action, but under the ruling of our Supreme Court in Taylor vs. the State of Oregon in the Soldiers' Home case, that a private citizen cannot begin such an action, without showing that he is materially damaged, this will be a difficult undertaking. If such a proceeding is undertaken it must emanate from a public official, and such a step is hardly to be expected in the face of preponderance of public sentiment in favor of the city's action.

Even the element that has been bitterly opposed to this location, and fought it from the first, now sees the wisdom of letting up in its opposition, and favors the city because it is the site selected. Practically the sentiment of the city is now unanimous for the Wilson Avenue location, and this is a good thing. We want harmony in our city and we want the new post office building. We shall have both. The remainder of the avenue as a result will be handsomely improved and the whole tract, with the three public buildings in a row, will be a joy for years to come.

Burned to Death.
PENDLETON, Or., Aug. 21.—Frank Linsbaugh, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Linsbaugh, was burned to death at noon Saturday. The child was upstairs at home, the mother being at her household duties downstairs. When the fire was discovered it had gained too great headway to permit rescue of the child.

GENERALS QUARREL

Hale Calls Otis a Coward and Other Pet Names.

And Threatens to Prefer Charges Against His Superior.

New York, Aug. 21.—A special from Denver to the Times says: In a letter received from Henry Kerr, orderly of General Hale, the latter is reported to have been recalled from the firing line during an engagement to report in person to General Otis. General Hale was in the act of winning a great victory, but he obeyed, withdrew the brigade from the fighting line, and rode to General Otis' headquarters. This is the conversation that is said to have ensued:

"General Hale, you shall not disobey me while I am in command of this army. I want you to explain why you made that movement with your brigade," said General Otis, with venom in his tone.

"I did not disobey any orders," replied General Hale, "and well you know it. I came here to fight, and if this is not your policy I want you to understand that it is mine. I saw an opportunity to make a successful attack today, and tried to accomplish it, but you interfered and caused me to fail."

"This matter will go to Washington," said Otis, "and you shall suffer for it." "If it does I shall prefer charges against you for cowardice," Hale retorted.

"How dare you suggest such a thing? You are an inferior officer and if you don't retract I will place you under arrest," roared General Otis.

The war of words between the generals was continued on these lines for half an hour, it is said. General Hale had the better of the argument and General Otis finally gave up the job of bulldozing, dropping the case entirely.

General Hale up to three months ago intended to remain in the service and was laying his plans to stay in the Philippines. This friction between General Otis and himself, however, caused him to change his intention and he applied to be mustered out. He is now on his way home.

GRAIN CONDITIONS.

Reports Indicate Less Damage Than Was Feared.

E. M. Reese brought to the JOURNAL office this morning a large bunch of wheat made up of specimens taken from shocks on three different farms, the Macy, Olmhart and F. R. Smith places. Bunches was taken from different parts of the shocks, top and bottom. There is no sign of sprouting in this lot, and no discoloration. The grain was submitted to the inspection of Manager Holland and Miller Hatch, at the Salem Flouring Mills, and these gentlemen pronounced it unimpaired.

F. Levy reports that the men on his place say that not over 10 per cent of the grain there can be injured, only that lying in bad position on the ground being in danger.

An old miller says that a week or two days of rain will not cause the grain to sprout, so long as it is cold. He has seen two weeks of cold rain in Minnesota without damage to the grain.

Alex LaFollett, of Mission Bottom, says that several days more of cool rain will not hurt the grain, but if it turns warm and continues damp, the grain will begin to sprout.

More rain has fallen during the month of August so far this year than has fallen in any August in 30 years, so say some of the old settlers.

DIED.

TAYLOR—At Bethel, Oregon, Aug. 21, 1899, at 6 o'clock a. m. of heart failure J. T. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor is comparatively a newcomer in Oregon, coming from Illinois having lived here but two years. He leaves a family and was member of the order of Modern Woodmen of America in which he carries a policy.

Mr. Taylor was 37 years of age and was a member of Rockbridge Camp, No. 2148, Modern Woodmen of America, in which order he carried a policy for $3000. He leaves a wife and five small children.

Burial will take place at McCoy some time tomorrow.

Guns to Be Tested.
ASTORIA, Or., Aug. 21.—The ordinance board of the army has been expected here for several days to meet with Major Hess, ordinance inspector of this district. The object of the visit is to make a practical test of the efficiency of the 10-inch guns and mortar batteries at Fort Stevens and Columbia. The test was to have been made Friday but the other members of the board did not arrive. The tests will be as in actual warfare, and with full service charges. The mortar battery will drop shells into the river within specified squares, or short distances of each other. The 10-inch rifles will throw their immense steel projectiles at an imaginary vessel, and crossfire between the two forts will have a material effect in carrying out the plans of fortifying Fort Canby in a modern way. Practical torpedo practice is also to be considered by the same board.

Rogue River Hatchery.
ORONCO CITY, Aug. 21.—J. W. Bertram, for several years connected with the Clackamas hatchery, arrived from the Rogue river valley. He has charge of the state hatchery now being constructed on Rogue river, 35 miles from Central Point, which he says will be ready for operation by September 10. There is a good run of fine salmon in the river, and Mr. Bertram expects that enough eggs will be secured to all the hatchery, which has a capacity of 500,000 eggs. Water will be elevated to the new hatchery by means of a steam pump.

Volunteers Reception.

The young friends of Messrs Chas. Horner, Everett Millard and Archie Millard, returned soldiers of the Second Oregon, gave them a pleasant surprise reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Horner, three miles east of Salem, on Saturday evening, August 19. The evening was delightfully spent in viewing trophies captured by the brave soldier boys while fighting their country's battles. They looked their best in full dress uniform and were the cynosure of many admiring glances from the fair sex as they related thrilling war adventures.

After partaking of ice cream the guests departed all declaring the evening one long to be remembered. Following is a list of those present: Misses Jessie and Josie Munkers, Martha and Mary Bowerman, Bertha and May Thayer, Hattie Pope, Bessie Geener, Pearl Porth, of Riekey; Edda Allen, Bessie Ballenger, of Bethel; Florence and Nellie Bell of Salem; Messrs. Everett and Archie Millard, Irving Paine, of Sheridan; Chas. and Wesley Horner, of Riekey; Frank Allen, of Bethel; Clarence Beaver, Leo Kraps, of Auburn; Len McKinney, of Silverton; Roy Ballinger, of Salem.
